"Electric Bitters have done me more good than any medicine I ever took.

For several years I had stomach trouble, and paid out much money for medicine to little purpose, until I began taking Electric Bitters. I would not take $500 for what they have done for me."

"Grand tonic for the aged and for female weaknesses. Great alterative and body builder; best of all for lame back and weak kidneys. Guaranteed by A. M. Hughes druggist, 50c.

OBITUARY.

Death has again visited our community, and took from Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Moore their darling little baby.

Aged eight weeks. Father and mother brothers and sisters, weep not for little Cealad but prepare to meet him where there will be no more parting.

The home has lost a sparkling jewel, but God needed one more angel child amidst his shining host so he stooped with loving smiles and clasped your darling's hand. He is now basking in the sunshine of that celestial city that was purchased by the blood of Jesus. As he said, Suffer little children to come unto me for I have said, and at the resurrection day the Lord will say well done that good and faithful servant here is your darling baby I have kept so long for you enter in and be with him always.

Farewell darling O, the parting, brings to us sad tears and pain. But there is a golden promise, that in heaven we'll meet again.

Eda Hickman.

A HARD DEBT TO PAY.

"I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be paid off," writes G. S. Clark of Westfield, Iowa, "for my release from death, by Dr. King's New Discovery. Both lungs were so seriously affected that death seemed imminent when I commenced taking New Discovery. The pneumonia, dry, hacking cough kept breaking the fire, and was used and two more bottles made a complete cure. Nothing has ever equalled New Discovery for coughs, colds and all throat and lung complaints. Guaranteed by A. M. Hughes druggist, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

FARM POETRY.

Mr. Editor: Will you kindly give space in your Home Circle department for a farmer's wife to "speak her piece" To begin with we all enjoy your Home Circle column and find much in it that is useful as well as interesting. Of late, however, while we fully agree with most that appears in this department, we have read a few items regarding the beauties of life on the farm with which we differ. Where is the poetry of farming? "Tell me, ye winged winds," or any one else who can, for we really ask for information on the subject. We have heard of a person living all his lifetime in sight of a most beautiful landscape, but he never saw the beauty nor dreamed of such a thing, till his attention was called to the fact by another. It may be so with us; we may be living in the very midst of the poetry and pleasure of rural life, and our dulled senses fail to realize the fact. Therefore please, who can, point us to the bright way. But please don't mention, among the attractions of country life the "woodland dells, where tiny leaflets clap their merry hands and all nature smiles in serene happiness;" nor say anything about the "pure, fresh country air." We have a nice grove on our farm, and often when we run out for an armful of wood or a pail of water, we look at the grove and think how pleasant it would be to sit there and rest; but the kettle waits for the water, the fire for the wood, and back we go. And when the work is done, there is the baby—she cannot be left alone, and we think—prefer rest indoors to an enjoyment of nature's beauties under circumstances.

As to the "pure, fresh air" we have breathed quite as pure in cities as that which is wafted from the neighboring pig-yard. And when the wind sweeps from our big marsh, it is most too fresh for comfort or the well being of the clothes switching on the clothes-line.

We should never have thought so much about this were there not so much written about the beguety and poetry of farm life, by those who know least about it. There are charming rural retreats, we know, but charming rural life is another thing. A party may spend a hot summer day in the cool woods and be delighted; but let them pass the same day over the cook stove or ironing board, or in the hay field, they will find a difference. The former is the ideal rural life; the latter the real.

There are many pleasures in the farmer's life, but plenty of hard work to destroy all idea of poetry, and bring one down to very common prose. Is there poetry in butchering, sausage making, lard frying? Is there poetry in hauling manure? Is there, oh, is there, poetry in picking potato bugs?

A Farmer's Wife.

FLOWERS TEACH NEATNESS.

We hope all who read this column will endeavor to keep a few flowers in the home. In addition to their beauty and fragrance, they teach neatness and order. The wife and children like to have a clean room, so that the flower, in its purity and grace, may not shame them. And then, too a poor man likes to feel that he has an ornament in his dwelling similar to that which a rich man chooses as the best embellishment of his drawing room. The cottage and the mansion differ very much in structure and in furniture, but a pretty flower carefully watered and tended, blooms as well in a cottage as in a palace window. Then the flower speaks to the inmates of the home and tells them of the wisdom and love of God; how He sent these beautiful flowers into the world to please the eye of man.

THREE IMPORTANT THINGS.

Three things to love: courage, gentleness, affection. Three things to admire: intellectual power, dignity and gracefulness. Three things to hate: cruelty, vengeance, ingratitude. Three things to delight in: beauty, frankness, freedom. Three things to wish for: health, friends and a cheerful spirit. Three things to pray for: faith, peace, purity of heart. Three things to like: good humor, mirthfulness and the Home Circle department. Three things to avoid: idleness, loquacity, flippancy, jesting. Three things to cultivate: good books good friends. Three things to govern: temper, tongue, conduct. Three things to think about: life, death, eternity.

MATRIMONIAL MANIA.

We have just been shown a matrimonial journal in which men advertise for wives the same as they would for a horse. The way in which the majority of men marry, is nothing short of a burlesque upon the "sacred institution." They set about looking for a wife as they would for a horse. They make an inventory of her "good points," ascertain the quickness of her movements, the state of her digestion, her capacity for economy, the yielding quality of her disposition; if she "suits" they propose partnership, and women are such fools, if we must say it, fools from the force of circumstances and custom as to say "yes," when with all the thunder of their souls they should say "no." Such offers of marriage are insults to the women who receive them, a shame and disgrace to the men who make them, and rank dishonor to the Lord who created them.

There is nothing in the moral, spiritual or physical universe that makes marriage respectable, but love. Without it there can be no marriage, only a wretched, miserable form, that rapidly degenerates into a loathsome demoralizing burden. The time to marry is when love demands it, and not simply because the kitchen needs a cook, the dining table a figure-head in muslin or silk, or the cucumber vines somebody to kill the bugs on them. The one to marry is the woman you love, and no other one. That, and that alone should decide. Riches may take wings and fly away; beauty may fade; good health is a very excellent and desirable thing in man or woman, but the circumstance of an hour or moment may ruin the best of health. A man who marries from "married considerations," usually gets what he deserves—its full equivalent in unhappiness. A man who marries for beauty, learns, as no other man can learn, how hideous and loathsome it may become. So, young men, take love for your guidance in this matter, remembering that it demands the best and noblest in you—that it is sacred and holy, and divine for it is of God.

A GOOD RECORD.

Make a note now to get Ely's Cream Balm if you are troubled with the head. It is purifying and soothing nasal catarrh, hay fever or cold in to the sensitive membrane that lines the air-passages. It is made to overcome the disease, not to fool the patient by a short, deceptive relief. There is no cocaine nor mercury in it. Do not be talked into taking a substitute for Ely's Cream Balm. All druggists sell it. Price 50c. Mailed by Ely Bros., 56 Warren Street New York.

Notice.

I have buyers for several farms. Those who wish to list their farms with me for sale will please call on me at once. Real estate a specialty.
